People, Spots In The News

HORSE PLAY at New York's Aqueduct Track—an unusual picture from the $20,000 "Gazette" feature.

SIDELINKS of NEW YORK may sizzle in drought, but little Tony Tallo has private Niagara from his first Avenel hydrant.

MARBLE QUEEN is Emma Miller, 11, of Canton, Ohio. She out-bid many boys at Asbury Park, N. J., National Marble Championship.

CHRISTMAS ARTIST—Edward Geog's painting of "Nativity With Birds" won $2,000 and first prize over 5,121 other artists competing with the 56-year-old Persian in the Hallmark drawing card company's $13,750 French art competition.

Aime's eyes lighter, men glow with sudden joy. "Fred! You dear! Is it really? Was your mother really a poet? Oh, why didn't you tell me before! It's just too exciting!"

Fred gazed delightedly. En route to the station he began to smile. And by the time he had boarded the 8:15 the smile had developed into an occasional chuckle. Tom Cooke, who usually sat next to him, became curious.

"Save, what's eating you this morning? Let a man in on it if you've got something that'll fetch a laugh these dull days."

Fred laughed outright. "I'll tell you, Tom. It's too good to keep. But don't on your life breathe a word. It would kill Aime."

ELBA vs NEW BROCKTON

SUNDAY, JULY 10TH

ELBA vs SHELLHORN

★ DOUBLE HEADER ★

THURSDAY, JULY 14TH

NELSON FIELD ELBA, ALABAMA

The steel beams supporting the upper brick work of the front of the Brooks store building occupied by the L. M. West and Elba Drug Co. stores, and the brick work has been completed. The upper part of the West store will be painted red and the drug store will be finished in blue to conform to the lower parts of the fronts. The Bonneau-Jeter double store building has recently been painted in black. Next door is the Duke Tatum building, recently painted green. The Elba Theatre building comes next with its variegated colors. Then comes the Murphy store, freshly painted a pretty yellow trimmed in black. Next door is the J. H. Brown store. The Western Auto Associate store finishes out the block. It has been freshly painted white trimmed in blood red. When all of the painting is completed the west side of the square will present an attractive appearance and no one can complain of monotony of coloring.

The first meeting is announced for the first Friday night in August at 8 o'clock, when arrangements will be made for the year's work. Prof. McGowan and Principal Sam Casey have been named as the two directors.

Prof. McGowan is instructor of school bands at Laverne, Brantley, and comes to Elba highly recommended as a competent musician and band director. He will conduct the Elba one night each week, the time to be determined at the above announced meeting.

Mr. Strain developed an outstanding school band here, with a junior organization well qualified to furnish replacements as needed. Only a few band members were lost last year by graduation and other causes and it is thought that there will be little trouble in supplying competent replacements.

All members of the senior and junior bands and others who wish to become members as well as parents and others interested in the band's welfare are cordially invited and urged to attend the organization meeting on Friday night, August 5.

The announcement that a competent band instructor has been secured will be good news to Elba citizens and a spirit of optimism prevails.

SHOOT STORY

Poachers Outwitted
By Richard Hill Wilkinson

IT HAPPENED that young Glen Lloyd was the only person on duty when Chief Fred Mather received word that poachers were doing a wholesale business in moose meat up in Birchhill county. Glen was a rookie on the job. As yet he had not come into contact with the hardships or the dangers of a north woods game warden. Chief Mather decided to use discretion. "You go up there and do some reconnoitering," he told the youth.

"You'll find a base camp under a cliff near the headwaters of the Beaver. Make this your headquarters until word comes. I've an idea that Moe Stanton's behind this ring. He's a bad egg."

Glen reached the base camp two days later. The ground was covered with a six-inch fall of snow. Glen waited two days more and then decided to take matters into his own hands. Armed with his service pistol and a flashlight he crept toward the edge of the snow. It was bitterly cold and a brisk wind was blowing. Also there was the promise of snow in the night. He held his breath and crept forward. He waited until the driver stepped out into the pull, then stepped out into the pull. He held his breath and crept forward. He waited until the driver stepped out into the pull, then stepped out into the pull.

Instead of stopping, the driver bore down on the accelerator. The truck roared straight at the warden. Glen stepped to the side by avoiding being hit, and as the heavy machine lumbered by he swung himself onto the sideboard. He clung there perilously.

Glen followed the tracks until they turned into a country road. For a moment, then something hit him on the head, he heard an angry curse, and went spinning into space.

Fifteen minutes later he emerged on to the same tote road where it doubled back on itself. The lights from the truck were already sweeping up the incline.

Glen crouched behind a boulder, glad that the darkness was so intense. He waited until the truck had traveled by, then ran after it. He caught the tailboard and hoisted himself up. Two men were standing up front, leaning over the cab. The noise of the motor had drowned out sounds of his approach.

Reversing his service gun, Glen crept up behind the men, felled one of them and grappled with the other. The scuffle was short-lived. Taken completely by surprise the poacher was at a disadvantage. Stunned by the blow which he tried to dodge, he fell against the cab and slumped to his knees when Glen struck out a second time.

The warden handcuffed the two men to an upright in the truck, then approached the cab. There was a small window in its rear. Through this Glen thrust his gun, splintering the glass. The two men inside started to find themselves staring into the gun's muzzle.

Warden Leomis, trekking northward to join young Glen Lloyd, was astonished to find a truck on the old tote road. The truck stopped and a friendly, boyish voice greeted him.

"Hi, Joe," Glen yelled. "Put some bracelets on these birds in front, will you? My hand's so stiff from holding this gun I can't move it—let alone pull the trigger."

When Chief Mather heard the story he wrote a personal letter to Supervisor Herlick, complimenting the supervisor on his choice of men.
